

CLIENT WELCOME GUIDE

A clear start makes better work possible.

Use this guide to prepare your content, review design work and keep decisions moving. It gives everyone the same starting point and a clear path to delivery.

GOAL

What should the finished document help someone do?

AUDIENCE

Who will read it, and what do they need to understand?

MATERIALS

Provide approved copy, original images and brand guidance.

TIMING

Confirm the review dates and final delivery deadline.

Choose one decision-maker to consolidate feedback and approvals.

How to send a complete brief

Create one shared project folder. Organise the material before sending the link so the design process starts with the right information.

STEP 01

Collect the approved content in one place.

STEP 02

Name files clearly and add placement notes.

COPY
Use an editable document with headings identified.

IMAGES
Supply original files and any required credits.

The details that save a revision

COPY

Check spelling, heading order, contact details and mandatory wording. Mark anything that is still a draft.

IMAGES

Send original files with clear names. Tell us which images are essential and where credits should appear.

BRAND

Include the logo, colour values and font guidance. Share existing materials when consistency matters.

REFERENCES

Explain what you like: the image placement, structure, visual tone or level of detail.

Final copy comes first. New content after design begins can change the agreed scope and timeline.

Useful feedback creates progress

Page 4: replace the image with file 07, shorten the heading, and align the caption with the text column.

Gather comments from all decision-makers.

Refer to specific pages and elements.

Separate corrections from new content.

Explain the goal behind each change.

Send one consolidated feedback document.

Clear stages. Visible decisions.

NEXT STEP / Prepare the content folder and confirm your decision-maker.
